
PROGRAM GUIDELINES 2019/20

PROFESSIONAL PROJECT ASSISTANCE - Arts Periodicals

Important Update for 2019/20:

In July 2018, the BC Arts Council (BCAC) released the New Foundations: Strategic Plan for the BC Arts Council 2018-2022. As part of the implementation of New Foundations, BCAC will be revising existing program eligibility and assessment criteria over the coming year to fully align with the new strategic directions and priorities. However, in order to best serve BCAC clients, accommodate existing program deadlines and honour the plan's commitment to consultation, BCAC is taking a phased approach in rolling out these changes.

As there have been preliminary changes to the program guidelines and application form this year to reflect the new strategic directions and priorities, please ensure you review all program materials thoroughly.

All applicants are encouraged to review New Foundations: Strategic Plan for the BC Arts Council 2018-2022 in order to acquaint themselves with the BCAC's priorities for the coming years.

Territory Acknowledgement

The BC Arts Council acknowledges it carries out its work on the traditional territories of Indigenous nations throughout British Columbia. We pay our respects to the Elders, past and present, descendants and custodians of these lands. We honour the knowledge keepers and the continuing relationships with Indigenous people in B.C. that develop through our work together. The BC Arts Council thanks the Lekwungen speaking people and the Esquimalt and Songhees First Nations for allowing us to operate our main offices within their traditional territories.

General Information – Professional Project Assistance

Professional Project Assistance provides one-time grants that contribute to the successful realization of a single event or activity by professional B.C. organizations, collectives and individuals not currently in receipt of Operating Assistance.

The maximum contribution to a project in this program is 50% of the total budget of the project. Receipt of funding does not guarantee assistance in subsequent years.

About Professional Project Assistance – Arts Periodicals

Professional Project Assistance Program – Arts Periodicals is intended to assist arts periodicals that are primarily devoted to publishing any form of artistic expression or social, cultural, or intellectual commentary or inquiry that has not been previously published (at least 75% of content). Considering Cultural Context

In New Foundations: 2018-2022, the BC Arts Council has made a commitment to principles of equity, diversity, accessibility and truth and reconciliation in all of its programs and processes. In its own operations and in the funding and support it provides for arts and culture in the province, the BC Arts Council administers its activities in accordance with the BC Human Rights Code and strives to foster cultural safety and safe and respectful workplaces for all artists, arts workers and cultural practitioners.

The BC Arts Council is committed to the standards and principles of the United Nations Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples \(the Declaration\) and the Calls to Action of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission. We support the Province of British Columbia in its commitment to fully adopt and implement both of these important documents.

The BC Arts Council acknowledges the cultural, geographic and regional diversity of the province, and recognizes the distinct and varied contexts of Indigenous, cultural and regional communities.

In consideration of these commitments, all applicants and assessors should contemplate a variety of factors around cultural context when submitting a proposal. Not all considerations will apply to all applications.

- Consider issues around cultural appropriation and ownership if using the cultural expressions, aesthetics or iconography of various communities removed from their social, political and cultural roots. Cultural appropriation can also occur when there is insufficient credit given to the sources of artistic and cultural work. Cultural appropriation diminishes access and reduces the opportunity for artists from Indigenous and diverse cultural communities to tell their own stories.

- If working with Indigenous peoples, communities, culture or intellectual property (including but not limited to stories, songs, dance, designs, art, traditional knowledge or other cultural expressions), consider the principles outlined in the United Nations Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (the Declaration). The Declaration affirms that Indigenous peoples have the right to self-determination and the right to practice and revive their culture and traditions. As stated in Article 11 of the Declaration this “includes the right to maintain, protect and develop the past, present and future manifestations of their cultures, such as archaeological and historical sites, artefacts, designs, ceremonies, technologies and visual and performing arts and literature.”
- Consider the reciprocity of relationships with the various communities and cultural practices represented in your application, and whose voices and perspectives are being included.
- Consider how you have addressed cultural protocols and/or received permissions where required, including appropriate community consent, support, advice and/or collaboration.

Assessment Criteria

The four areas of assessment are set out below, along with their relative weighting.

Throughout the application and assessment, applicants and the Jury should:

- Consider and discuss how the project addresses the applicant’s mandate, mission and values in each area of assessment.
- Consider and discuss how the project fulfills the applicant’s artistic/editorial objectives in each area of assessment.

In evaluating each application, the Jury is asked to consider a number of possible criteria under each area of assessment. It is important to note that not all of the criteria will apply to each application; rather, they are examples of aspects that might be considered and should be addressed in the application if relevant to the applicant, the applicant’s history and/or the proposed project. Additionally, some criteria may have implications in more than one area of assessment.

Applications are judged against these criteria alongside a number of equally eligible applications.

In each area of assessment, the Jury considers the applicant’s reflection on both past achievement and proposed plans. Applicants are encouraged to critically assess the challenges faced and the creative solutions under consideration.

ARTISTIC CONTRIBUTION AND SIGNIFICANCE (40%)

Applicants should define and demonstrate their artistic/editorial activity, showing how the proposed project will advance the art form or practice that is central to the work of the collective or organization.

Jurors may discuss the following:

- Clarity, focus, and vitality of the proposed project.
- Artistic/editorial risk or challenges inherent in, or tackled by, the proposed project.
- The strength of the artistic/editorial intention in the work, the quality of the practice, and the development of the art form.
- Ability to realize the project artistically, based on previous successes and support material.
- Previous artistic/editorial achievements of the organization or collective.
- The applicant’s artistic/editorial practice in the context of B.C.’s geographic, Indigenous and cultural diversity.

- Clear statements about compensation to every professional artist, curator or professional practitioner participating in the project including levels of professional fees.
- The potential benefits to the development of the applicant, artists and the professional arts community in B.C.
- Commitment to the development of B.C. artists and cultural practitioners.
- Consideration of cultural context in the artistic activity.

ENGAGEMENT AND IMPACT (25%)

All projects are devised to involve particular artists, audiences, publics and/or communities. Applicants should identify the particular artists, audiences, publics and/or communities involved and to show how the project will offer stimulating and varied forms of engagement. Engagement may include supporting the creation or publication of literary work or social, cultural, or intellectual commentary or inquiry; the development of literary and related artists or professionals; audience engagement and participation; organizational development; discourse; and/or education.

Jurors may consider the following:

- Knowledge of the project's audience plus insight and strategies that will lead to further audience development.
- Commitment to work created by B.C. writers, editors and other arts professionals.
- The project's level of engagement in the context of B.C.'s geographic, Indigenous and cultural diversity.
- The inclusion of and engagement with appropriate protocols and practices, particularly in regard to Indigenous artists and communities.
- Risk-taking with regard to public engagement.
- Consideration of cultural context in engagement activity.

FEASIBILITY (25%)

This criterion considers the achievability of the project. Applicants should present the related past achievements and current practices and plans in place that demonstrate the achievability of the project.

Jurors may consider the following:

- Abilities in project management, including planning, audience development, marketing, communications (e.g. with collaborators, funders, media, other arts professionals) and financial management.
- Demonstrated capacity to realize the project, including presentation of realistic budget assumptions and projections.
- The diversity and appropriateness of the project's proposed budget, with appropriate levels of funding from sources other than the BC Arts Council, including earned revenues, federal and local government support, private funding, and in-kind support, as applicable.
- The quality of working conditions for artists and cultural workers, including the commitment to cultural safety.
- The applicant's financial position, including appropriate management of surplus or deficit situations, reserve and/or restricted funds, and working capital ratio.

CULTURAL COMPETENCY AND AGILITY (10%)

This area of assessment considers the applicant's ability to work respectfully, knowledgeably and effectively with artists, practitioners and communities from a diversity of cultural backgrounds. Cultural competency and agility has particular implications in considering reconciliation and the cultural safety and self-determination of Indigenous peoples.

Jurors may consider the following:

- Commitment and ability to foster cultural safety.
- Capacity to acknowledge, negotiate and respect differing cultural perspectives, worldviews and values.
- Reciprocity in artistic, cultural and community relationships.
- Ability to question organizational assumptions in a cultural context and willingness to learn in unfamiliar cultural situations.
- Ability to address cultural protocols and permissions where required, including appropriate community consent, support, advice and/or collaboration.
- Ethical use of material, including issues of cultural appropriation and ownership.
- Consideration of the impact of proposed artistic activity, including who will benefit from it.
